"BY THE BEST EQUIPPED WRITER IN THE COUNTRY"

BIRD STUDIES WITH A CAMERA.

With Introductory Chapters on the Outfit and Methods of the Bird Photographer. By FRANK M. CHAPMAN, Assistant Curator of Vertebrate Zoology in the American Museum of Natural History; Author of "Handbook of Birds of Eastern North America" and "Bird-Life." Illustrated with over 100 photographs from nature by the author. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

Bird students and photographers will find that this book possesses for them a unique interest and value. It contains fascinating accounts of the habits of some of our common birds and descriptions of the largest bird colonies existing in eastern North America; while its author's phenominal success in photographing birds in Nature not only lends to the illustrations the charm of realism, but makes the book a record of surprising achievements with the camera. The book is practical as well as descriptive, and in the opening chapters the questions of camera, lens, plates, blinds, decoys, and other pertinent matters are fully discussed, making the work an admirable guide for the camera hunter.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS, NEW YORK

Zola's New Novel, "Fruitfulness"

THERE has come about an incorrect impression concerning the character of M. Zola's great series of novels in which he expects to depict what he considers the great forces of human life and in particular to portray France as a nation. The first work, "Fruitfulness," which is just ready in the English translation, (and is to be followed by "Work," "Truth," and "Justice") tells the story of a young man who meets the usual financial difficulty in bringing up his increasing family. He and his wife eventually decide to go to the earth herself for their support: they secure an abandoned and desert tract, and by work and patience wrest from the soil itself a competency and a support for their family. The book is carried out on heroic lines, and M. Zola has given permission to the translator, Mr. Vizetelly, to make whatever changes he thought desirable for the English market. In doing this, the translator has cut out something like 100,000 words. $2.00.

A Book by Eugene Field's Nephew

THE first book on Western college life, so far as we know. It is written in part by a nephew of Eugene Field and is called "Stanford Stories." As this college is co-educational, the opportunities for a new kind of college story were very great. The authors of the book are Mr. Charles K. Field and Mr. W. H. Irwin, now of San Francisco, and since the life is quite different in Lower California from that of the other colleges in the United States, and the skill of the young authors is very unusual, a real success may be confidently looked for. The first edition was exhausted before the book was completed and a second one is in preparation. Illustrated. $1.25.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready Vizetelly's translation of Zola's new novel, "Fruitfulness;" also, "Stanford Stories," by Charles K. Field, (Eugene Field's nephew,) and W. H. Irwin, the first edition of which was exhausted before the book was completed. They will publish before the end of the month S. R. Crockett's new novel, "The Isle of the Winds," the scene of which is laid partly in the West Indies and partly in Scotland—much of the matter coming from private and hitherto unpublished memoirs, and from the town records of Aberdeen; also, "The Heart's Highway," a novel of Colonial days by Mary E. Wilkins.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish at once an attractively illustrated book entitled "Bird Studies with a Camera," with introductory chapters on the outfit and methods of the bird photographer, by Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator of Vertebrate Zoölogy in the American Museum of Natural History of New York. Mr. Chapman long since won his fame as an ornithologist with his "Handbook of Birds" and "Bird Life." His new book it is said will be a revelation of the possibilities and importance of the use of photography in the study of birds and their habits. They also announce a timely work in Eugene McCarthy's "Familiar Fish and How to Catch Them," with an introduction by Dr. David Starr Jordan, and numerous illustrations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish June 2, an important volume entitled "Our Native Trees and How to Identify Them," by Harriet L. Keeler. The work represents many years of careful study and observation; its scientific accuracy is coupled with a popular style of exposition and convenience and compactness of arrangement; its scope is broad enough to take in all the principal varieties of forest trees, indigenous and naturalized, and the apparatus of the book is full and varied, making the identification of trees easy and the study of their habits enjoyable. The work is illustrated with 180 full-page plates from photographs and 170 text-drawings. They will publish on the same date a new edition of Mrs. William Starr Dana's (now Mrs. Parsons) book "How to Know the Wild Flowers," with 48 full-page colored plates by Elsie Louise Shaw and 110 full-page drawings by Marion Satterlee. The text has been considerably enlarged and rewritten and entirely reset.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish within the next few weeks, seven novels, some of which are sure to claim wide attention on their appearance, as for instance James Lane Allen's "The Reign of the Law, a story of the Kentucky Hempfields." True to the instinct of his genius, Mr. Allen has again chosen a stirring period in the history of our country as the background for his new novel. Both the hero and the heroine are products of a revolution, and the scene of the plot is situated in the Kentucky hempfields. The revolution on the one hand was the social upheaval that the Civil War caused in the South; while on the other nand it was the moral and intellectual revolution which followed the great discoveries in physical and social science in the middle of this century. Florence Annie Steel's "Voices in the Night—a chromatic fantasia," also, will be welcome to those who have read her successful novel, "On the Face of the Waters." "As the Light Led," by James Newton Baskett, author of "At You All's House," is another book by this novelist of Missouri life. "The Banker and the Bear, a story of a Corner in Lard," by H. K. Webster, is a romantic love story which runs its course through some exciting episodes in the Chicago Chamber of Commerce. "A Friend of Cæsar" is an historical novel by Wm. Stearns Davis, who, by the by, is a grandson of the late President Davis of Amherst College, and who at the early age of twenty-one has written a book in which scholarship is blended with skill as a novel writer in a rathe rremarkable way. "A Breaker of Laws," by W. Pett Ridge, and "The Bennett Twins," by Grace Marguerite Hurd, complete the list.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Bangs, J: Kendrick. The booming of Acre Hill, and other reminiscences of urban and suburban life; il. by C. Dana Gibson. N. Y., Harper, 1900. c. 9+266 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A collection of short stories in which certain phases of the social life of to-day are treated in a genially satirical manner. The bulk of the volume deals with some of the amusing problems confronting those who dwell in small but growing cities. The encroachments of the "land boomers," who design uncomfortable homes for the unwary; the difficulties confronting those who interest themselves in church matters; the complications of life below-stairs, as well as life upstairs; the vagaries of surburban politics—all these topics form the burden of the stories of life in country communities.

Bates, Arlo. Love in a cloud: a comedy in filigree. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1900. c. 4+291 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The title is taken from an imaginary anonymous novel about which this story is woven. The curiosity concerning the authorship of the imaginary novel leads to a comedy of errors, and serves to introduce the principal characters. By the author of "The Puritans," etc.

Castle, Agnes and Egerton. The Bath comedy. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1900.] c. '99, 1900. 16+298 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The fashionable English resort of Bath, so often the scene of the old English comedies, is in the second half of the eighteenth century the scene of this amusing story. It turns upon the attempt of Lady Standish, a wife of a few months, to make her neglectful husband, Sir Jasper Standish, jealous. She had been told by pretty, witty Mistress Kitty Bellaire, the reigning belle of Bath, that it is a sure cure for an indifferent husband. The tale is told mostly in dialogue in a bright, witty way.

Clarke, J: Caldwell Calhoun, D.D. Man and his divine father. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1900. c. 2-364 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A treatment of systematic divinity from the point of view of the conservative theologian; the author in reaching his conclusions takes into account the most recent results of scientific inquiry. The discussion includes the philosophy of mind and spirit, moral science, the rights of men and human hopes. The author presents man and God as we know them by psychology and revelation, and considers their relation to each other as shown by the Bible. The chapters on "Philo of Alexandria" and "The Church in Syria," will be found valuable, as shedding light on New Testament thought and times.

Coloma, Luis. Currita, Countess of Albornoz: a novel of Madrid society; tr. from the Spanish by Estelle Huyck Attwell. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1900. c. 2+447 p. O. cl., $1.50.

This novel, the work of a Jesuit priest, has had a great success in Spain. It treats of the corruption of Dawson, A. J. Daniel Whyte: an unfinished biography. N. Y., Brentano's, 1900. 7+341 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Daniel Whyte's story is told from the beginning of his young life, when his father—a literary man—deserts his mother for another woman. Daniel is adopted by his paternal grandfather and begins at the age of fourteen a career of adventure as an apprentice in the English merchant service. He deserts his ship at Australia, and after many thrilling experiences, obtains a position in a newspaper office—finally writes novels—and after many years comes back to England, continuing in London his literary work. The story ends with his marriage.

Dole, Edmund P. Hiwa: a tale of ancient Hawaii. N. Y., Harper, 1900. c. 4+108 p. D. cl., $1.

Hiwa is a goddess queen of Hawaii during legendary times. The author weaves into his story authentic descriptions of native customs and ceremonies.

Dugmore, A. Radclyffe. Bird homes: the nests, eggs, and breeding habits of the land birds breeding in the Eastern United States; with hints on the rearing and photographing of young birds; il. with photographs from nature, by the author. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1900. c. 16+183 p. O. cl., net, $2.

A popular and intimate account of the nests, eggs, and breeding habits of the land birds that nest in the Eastern United States. Particularly notable are the illustrations (in color, and black and white), all of which were made directly from the nests and birds by the author. The notes on bird photography and on the rearing of young birds give information not attainable elsewhere and of great interest to nature-lovers and students.

Ellis, J. Breckenridge. The dread and fear of kings. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1900. c. 2-360 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The period is the beginning of the Christian era, and the scenes are laid in Rome, the island of Capri and other parts of Italy. The Emperor, Tiberius, had retired to Capri, and from his mysterious seclusion sent forth decrees which kept the Imperiai City in a continual state of terror. A single word uttered in disrespect of the Emperor or his favorite, Sejanus, might mean death and confiscation of property. The story is one of love and adventure, in which types of the diverse nationalities that then thronged the Imperial City are revealed in characters of marked individuality.

The purpose is to show, particularly from a consideration of political conditions as they now exist in the United States, that the formal governmental system as set forth in the law is not always the same as the actual system. The attempt is also made to indicate what changes in the formal system of the United States must be made, in order to make the actual system conform, more closely than it does at present, to the political ideas upon which the formal system is based.

Smith, Orlando J. The coming democracy. N Y., Brandur Co., [1900.] c. 3+162 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The author does not believe ours is a real democracy and thinks that the constitution is cumbersome and does not carry out the will of the people, and that too much power has been absorbed by the President. Other criticisms are made showing the source of many of our corruptions in politics. In place of the present systems of elections, he proposes the Free Man's ballot—"one vote for one cause and for one candidate." With explanations of this and other reforms is a glowing picture of the future democracy.

Smythe, W: E. Conquest of arid America. N. Y., Harper, 1900. c. 14+326 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The author is an authority upon the sciences of irrigation, and treats of the miracles wrought by modern scientific irrigation in connection with colonization with co-operative capital. He describes the Morman economic system, the Greeley Colony in Colorado, the Riverside Colony in California, etc. He shows how the arid deserts of America have been made the garden spots of the United States, and treats of the great possibilities in reclaiming these heretofore sun-burned wastes.

Spence, Walter. Back to Christ: some modern forms of religious thought. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1900. c. 4-222 p. D. cl., $1.

It is undeniable that on a number of questions—such as the inspiration of the Scriptures, God's universal Fatherhood, the Atonement, the second coming of Christ—the belief of the best modern theologians differs materially from the formal declarations in the standards of the churches. To these and kindred subjects our author has devoted extensive reading and careful study; he now presents the results in compact and readable form, and in language at once clear and terse. The book is written for thinking men and women, not for the theological scholar.

Windmere, New Jersey, is the scene of the story. The hero and heroine meet on a railway train, and after exchanging the usual formalities of travelling companions, they part—the heroine's destination being boarding school and the hero's journey ending in Argyle Place, where he is thereafter seen as the new boarder. In this role he again meets his travelling companion and some surprising situations follow.

Vincent, Leon H. Hôtel de Rambouillet and the précieuses. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1900. c. 4+123 p. S. cl., $1.

A sketch of the establishment and the influence of the Hotel de Rambouillet in the early part of the seventeenth century—the source of the French academy. Mr. Vincent describes the Marquise de Rambouillet and the famous women associated with her under the name of "Les precieuses;" also the famous men who styled themselves "Esprits doux." Among these associates were Richelieu, Bossuet, Corneille, Descartes, La Rochefoucauld, Balzac, Madame de Sevigne, and others.

The volume opens with what will be considered the standard biography of the greatest Jewish leader in the United States. It has been written by the editors of the book, the Rev. Dr. David Philipson and Louis Grossmann. They were both pupils of Dr. Wise, and were most intimately associated with him, not only during their college career, but also later as colleagues in the city of Cincinnati. The book is published under the auspices of the Alumnal Association of the Hebrew Union College. The selections from the writings of the illustrious rabbi, which form the bulk of the book, express the characteristic thoughts and opinions of the man who stood in the very forefront of American Jewish life for over half a century.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 19, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

TO END THE "RETURN SYSTEM."

A YEAR ago, when the abuse of the return privilege by unprincipled newsdealers was ventilated and condemned at the annual meeting of the Newsdealers' Association, a number of propositions were made to correct the abuse, not one of which went to the root of the evil, for the reason that the reform measures allowed the return system to remain in force. Certain newspaper publishers thereupon, in self-defense, adopted more or less effective measures to prevent dishonest practices; but on the whole the returns proved as serious a menace as ever to the profits of the newspaper business.

So long as paper and the other materials used in manufacturing newspapers were to be obtained cheaply the return system was endured as a necessary evil. With the sudden rise in the price of paper, however, the proportion of loss represented by the enormous number of unsold or returned copies became so serious that the New York newspaper publishers determined to seek relief in abolishing the return system altogether for the week day papers at least.

After mature deliberation all the members of the New York Publishers' Association, with the exception of the Journal, the Herald, and the Tribune, decided to cut off returns of daily papers from newsdealers, and to limit the return of the Sunday papers to ten per cent. The rule went into force a little over a week ago, and the result has been quite satisfactory.

It was feared by some that the cutting off of returns would have a depressing effect upon circulations; but such fears seem to have been unfounded. The proportion of the returns of the popular one-cent morning papers previous to the adoption of the new plan, according to The Fourth Estate, had been from seven to ten per cent. Since the new rule went into effect there has been, according to the same authority, a net gain in sales of from three to four per cent., and a loss of from four to five per cent. in the number of copies put out. Therefore, while in general circulations have shown a slight falling off, the cash returns have been larger.

The chief result aimed at in cutting off the returns is, of course, to reduce the outlay for white paper. Somebody with a statistical turn of mind has estimated that the amount of newspaper saved by all the New York dailies will be something like one hundred tons a week. Assuming that the price of paper is two cents a pound, the total cost of the hundred tons would be $4000. If these hundred tons were in the form of return paper they would bring 80 cents a hundred pounds, or $1600 in all, leaving a difference of $2400 a week as the cost of maintaining the return privilege. As a matter of fact, closer figuring would probably reduce these amounts considerably, but the result would nevertheless show a loss.

It is gratifying to learn that the newsdealers have co-operated heartily with the publishers in putting the new rule into practice. In fact, we believe that this sale-right-out system would be welcomed by the large majority of newsagents, for periodical literature as well as for newspapers, if they might buy at a cheaper rate, and thereby be enabled to earn a larger profit and have more margin for speculation. Furthermore, a canvass of the trade would undoubtedly bring out the fact that the return system is considered as much of a nuisance to the dealer as it has proven unprofitable to the publisher.

THE next issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, dated May 26, will be the Summer Number, which, as in former years, will contain extracts from this season's books, embellished with illustrations, printed on fine paper, and bound in a special cover. This issue is specially adapted for distribution by booksellers with their own imprints, and we beg to remind those dealers who have not yet placed their orders that the edition is limited and that we must have word before the 22d inst., as we shall be unable to supply copies ordered after that date.

EARLY AMERICAN IMPRINTS.*

By W. J. James, Librarian of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct.

The subject I have chosen to present to you to-day is a very small subdivision of a large subject, bibliography, and I shall endeavor to show you what progress has been made during the past quarter of a century in the limited subject I have selected, and also the extent of our knowledge in some detail. I shall also point out some of the directions in which further investigation is especially needed.

I shall confine my attention to publications issued prior to 1801 in what is now the United States, newspapers and magazines being excluded from consideration. I shall frequently speak of these publications, (books, pamphlets, and broadsides), as imprints. These publications are worthy of our study not merely as bibliographical rarities, which indeed many of them are, but also because of their importance to the historian and student of manners and customs. The deep interest manifested at present in historical studies in this country and the growing tendency to send students to the sources for information increase the obligation upon librarians to find out what material they have in their charge and to put their knowledge in such shape that it may be available for students.

In studying this subject I have found it necessary to make two main divisions, one covering the period from 1639, the date of the introduction of printing into the English colonies, to the end of the 17th century, the other covering the 18th century. This second period is again divided into two parts, one from 1701 to 1775, inclusive, the other from 1776 to 1800, inclusive.

In dealing with the first period, 1639-1700, our principal source of information was, until recently, the valuable list of pre-revolutionary publications prepared by Samuel F. Haven, Jr., M.D., and published in the 2d edition of Thomas' History of Printing in America, vol. II., Albany, 1874.

Since the publication of Dr. Haven's list considerable additions have been made to our knowledge, and I have endeavored to use such of these new sources as I could get access to. Through the kindness of Mr. Barton and Mr. Paine I was allowed to make use of the notes made by Dr. J. Hammond Trumbull in a copy of Dr. Haven's list. This copy was left by Dr. Trumbull to the American Antiquarian Society of Worcester. In addition I have used Dr. Green's "List of early American imprints belonging to the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society," with its two supplements; Nathaniel Paine's "List of early American imprints, 1640-1700, belonging to the library of the American Antiquarian Society;" Charles R. Hildeburn's "Century of Printing: The Issues of the Press in Pennsylvania, 1685-1784;" Wilberforce Eames' "Early New England Catechisms" and "Bibliographic Notes on Eliot's Indian Bible and on his other translations and works in the Indian language of Massachusetts;" Rev. W. DeLoss Love's "Fast and Thanksgiving Days of New England;" and the Catalogue of the Brinley Library.

From 1639 to 1700 Dr. Haven listed 648 imprints. I have gone through Dr. Haven's list very carefully, striking out some titles because there was strong evidence that they did not belong there and others because they were parts of works already entered. On the other hand many additions have been made from the sources mentioned above. The result of these eliminations and additions is a total of 831 titles, a net increase of 183 titles. Of these 831 publications I can give the location of one or more copies in the case of 577, and of the remainder 49 were disposed of in the Brinley sale. In locating copies of these 17th century imprints I have depended upon the lists prepared by Dr. Green and Mr. Paine, and upon visits to the libraries in Hartford. I have no doubt that a little co-operative work would locate copies of a very large portion of the 254 imprints for which I have as yet no copies located.

With the exception of two or three publications in Maryland and Virginia the printing of the 17th century was done in Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania. We cannot hope for many additions to the elaborate list of Pennsylvania imprints given by Hildeburn. For Massachusetts we have no complete list, but the collections of the American Antiquarian Society and of the Massachusetts Historical Society are so rich in Massachusetts imprints that we cannot expect many additions to the number given by Messrs. Green and Paine. Hildeburn's Sketches of Printers and Printing in Colonial N. Y. I have not seen.

I believe, therefore, that we are nearly ready for the publication of a list of the known 17th century American imprints. What form should that list take, and how large a book would it make? There is need of agreement among bibliographers as to certain points of notation. For example, there is at present no uniformity as to the method of indicating unnumbered pages, blank pages, etc. Uniformity should be reached in such matters, if it is possible. But to return to more important questions—Titles should be given in full and lined off, and should be followed by full collations and by notes wherever necessary. As many copies as possible should be located, preferably in libraries open to the public, in order that the list might be of the greatest service to scholars. Where copies are imperfect that fact should be noted. The arrangement should be chronological, but there should also be a list of shortened titles arranged alphabetically by authors with date of publication added. A valuable addition would be a list of publishers with the years during which they printed.

Assuming that we can agree upon these points let me take Dr. Green's list as a model and make some calculations as to the size of such a list. Dr. Green devotes some space to notes referring to the particular copies owned by the Massachusetts Historical Society. After deducting the space given to these notes I find that in his original list Dr. Green described 304 imprints in 104 printed pages and that his list of shortened titles fills 7 pages more. If we assume that the discovery of additional imprints is not likely to increase the number of known imprints much beyond 900, you will see that we can describe as fully as may be necessary these 900 imprints in 300 pages, and that the list of shortened titles will fill 20 pages more. If we should use the same sized type and page that Dr. Green does, we should need a book of about 350 pages. Such a list would be of great value in many ways. I shall leave to others, however, the discussion as to the need of such a list and the question as to the method of production.

For the purpose of comparison I will make a similar calculation with Dr. Haven's list of 17th century imprints as a basis. Dr. Haven describes 648 imprints in 39 pages. A corrected edition of his list, describing 900 imprints with abbreviated titles and location of copies would not take more than 60 pages. An author and title list would add 20 pages. Such a list would be useful, but it would not be nearly as valuable as the fuller one previously advocated. It may be of interest to add that I have collected from the sources I have consulted and from inspection of the books themselves nearly 400 corrections, mainly in pagination, to Dr. Haven's list of 17th century imprints.

When we take up the 18th century imprints we find that on account of the number of works involved such elaborate treatment is out of the question. It will be convenient, as I have said before, to divide the century into two periods, one from 1701 to 1775, the other from 1776 to 1800, inclusive. For the former period we have Dr. Haven's valuable list as a basis. For the latter period we have no general guide at all.

For the eighteenth century I have consulted, in addition to Dr. Haven's list, the following works:

Charles R. Hildeburn's "Century of printing: The Issues of the Press in Pennsylvania, 1685-1784."

Wilberforce Eames' "Early New England Catechisms."

Paul Leicester Ford's "Bibliography and reference list of the history and literature relating to the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, 1787-8."

Paul Leicester Ford's "The New England Primer, a history of its origin and development."

Charles L. Nichols' "Bibliography of Worcester."

M. D. Gilman's "Bibliography of Vermont."

Jas. F. Hunnewell's "Bibliography of Charlestown, Mass., and Bunker Hill."

Oswald Seidensticker's "First century of German printing in America, 1728-1830."

William Nelson's "Check-list of the issues of the press of New Jersey, 1723, 1728, 1754-1800."

Charles E. Hammett's "Contribution to the bibliography and literature of Newport, R. I.

Rev. Joseph M. Finotti's "Bibliographia Catholica Americana, a list of books written by Catholic authors and published in the United States, part I., 1784-1820."

Dr. Stephen B. Weeks' "Press of North Carolina in the 18th century."

Joseph Williamson's "Bibliography of the State of Maine."

I have not found time to examine a number of other bibliographies, including some which I used in the preparation of the first part of this paper. Hence any results I may be able to reach will be even more fragmentary than the small amount of material at hand would necessarily make them. I have paid no attention to newspapers or magazines, believing that these publications are better adapted to separate treatment such as was given them in both editions of Thomas' History of Printing in America, and such as Mr. Nelson is now giving them in the Archives of the State of New Jersey. Dr. Haven mentions only two or three of the earliest in his list.

After a comparison of these bibliographies with Dr. Haven's list I have found the subjoined list of additional publications during the years 1701-1775, inclusive:

Hildeburn	1783
Eames	15
Ford (New England Primer)	18
Nichols	2
Gilman	4
Hunnewell	6
Nelson	85
Hammett	103
Finotti	2
Weeks	36
Williamson	20
Total	2074

For this same period Dr. Haven lists 7063 imprints. An addition of over 2000 imprints is a considerable increase, but this result is only a partial one. Dr. Haven's list is strongest, naturally, in New England imprints. Had we lists of Massachusetts and Connecticut imprints we should find many additions to our total, but from New York we should get very many more, and from the states south of Pennsylvania a considerable number. All we can say is that from 1701 to 1775, inclusive, the total number of imprints must considerably exceed 10,000.

For the period 1776-1800 we no longer have the valuable assistance of Dr. Haven's list, and the results reached must be very fragmentary. We may perhaps form some estimate of the number of imprints Dr. Haven might have listed had he carried his list through the century. For the five years, 1771-1775, the average number of publications per year was nearly 220. This would give 5500 publications during the following 25 years. Although the number of imprints may have dropped below this average during the Revolutionary War, there is little doubt that for the later years of the century this average must have been considerably exceeded, and that the total number of imprints for the 25 years must have been considerably more than 5500.

In the bibliographies I have consulted I have found the following numbers of imprints for this period:

Hildeburn (1776-1784)	1388
Eames	15
Ford (New England Primer)	23
Ford (Constitution)	65
Nichols	389
Gilman	248
Hunnewell	93
Nelson	367
Seidensticker (1785-1800)	331
Hammett	99
Finotti	96
Weeks	93
Williamson	217
Total	3424

There can be very little duplication in these lists, hence it is clear 5500 must be far short of the real number of imprints. We have Maine and Vermont in full, in Massachusetts only Charlestown and Worcester, in Rhode Island only Newport, very little in New Hampshire, Connecticut, and New York, New Jersey in full, in Pennsylvania after 1784 only the productions of the German press, and south of Pennsylvania only North Carolina. With such scattering data at our command it is impossible to give any reliable estimate as to the number of publications from 1776 to 1800 inclusive.

In closing I will point out briefly some of the lines in which work is urgently needed. There is need of careful study of certain special classes of books, need of just such work as Mr. Eames has done in his "Early New England Catechisms," or as Mr. Ford has done in his "New England Primer." There is an ample field for work in a careful study of American almanacs of the 17th and 18th centuries. Another field for work may be found in the laws of the various states. We need careful lists of these laws, not merely of the larger collections of laws, but of the session acts as well. Every edition should be noted and wherever possible the location of copies should be given. In a larger field there is a demand for lists of all the publications in a given state or city during a certain period. As examples I will cite only four works: Hildeburn's "Issues of the Press in Pennsylvania," Nelson's "Check-list of the Issues of the Press of New Jersey," Weeks' "Press of North Carolina in the 18th Century," and Nichols' "Bibliography of Worcester." There is a need also of such works as Williamson's "Bibliography of the State of Maine." I feel, however, that I have said enough on this point. It is evident that there will be ample opportunity for much intelligent, painstaking work before the subject of printing in the United States in the 18th century can be regarded as adequately treated.

CHANGES IN THE BOSTON BOOK TRADE.

Herbert Small, of the firm of Small, Maynard & Co., has been obliged, owing to ill health, to retire from active business and has severed his connection with the firm with which his name has been connected since its organization and incorporation about two years ago. He is succeeded as president of the corporation by Dr. Isaac Hall Platt, who until this time has been its vice-president. John Miley, a successful business man not heretofore connected with the book business, has joined the corporation as vice-president and general manager. Laurens Maynard remains as treasurer, and Bliss Carman as a director. The reorganization makes no difference in the name of the corporation, nor in the general methods or policy of the firm. Mr. Small is now in Europe, whither he went two or three months ago when ill health compelled him to withdraw from active business. His retirement will be greatly regretted by the literary circle in Boston, as well as by the trade in general. He had been a journalist before engaging in the publishing business, and is a young man of decided cultivation and of sagacity in all bookish matters.

A new publishing firm has been organized by the members of Small, Maynard & Co. and Curtis & Cameron, to be known as Noyes, Platt & Co. The new firm will confine itself to the publishing of fine art works, their first book being the official illustrated catalogue of the fine arts exhibit of the United States at the Paris Exposition. This catalogue will be published in separate French and English editions and will make its appearance shortly. Both the houses of which this new firm is made up will continue their separate business as formerly, and Laurens Maynard will act besides as the general manager of the new corporation.

NOTES ON PRINTERS AND BOOKSELLERS.

Charles Geering, author of "Notes on Book Plates," etc., has published through Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., of London, an interesting volume entitled "Notes on Printers and Booksellers, with a chapter on Chap Books." In the first part the author gives a rapid survey of the beginnings of the art of printing with brief notices of the early printers and more extended ones of the modern printers, devoting particular attention to the Kelmscott Press and the work of William Morris and his associates; the Daniel Press, established in 1856 by the Rev. C. H. Daniel of Worcester College, Oxford; the Vale Press of Hacon & Ricketts, and the Chiswick Press. The second part treats quite fully of booksellers. Most of the biographical details for this section were gathered at first hand. The author has purposely omitted treating of living London booksellers, as being too large a subject to be adequately dealt with here. After a reference to the earliest booksellers of Greece and Rome, a passing glance is given to the progress of the trade in England. Coming down to more modern times, occur the names of many prominent men, such as Thomas Guy, Edward Cave, who was responsible for the Gentleman's Magazine on its first appearance in 1731, Dodsley, and Thomas Cadell, who died an alderman in 1802. A short historical account of the great publishing houses of Longmans and Murray, with one or two others, introduces the reader to the portion of the book dealing with the business history of some of the more eminent provincial booksellers, many of whom, have, by sheer force of brains and hard work, risen to their present position. The fact insisted on, that the true bookseller, the man who knows something more of the goods he sells than the mere externals, is still existent, is strongly forced upon the reader in every case, and it is clear that in the opinion of all of them, a good living, at least, may be made by pure bookselling, provided a clear perception be used in selecting a suitable stock. The last nineteen pages of the book are given up to an illustrated account of Chap Books. The volume contains 19 portraits and 37 facsimiles and other illustrations. (14+119 p. 8°, bds.)

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE May dinner of The Booksellers' League given at the rooms of the Aldine Association on the evening of the 16th inst. was attended by upwards of seventy members and their friends, and proved one of the most enjoyable entertainments given this season. The president, Charles E. Butler, in a happy speech introduced Major J. B. Pond, who, instead of telling of the authors he has met, gave a most delightful talk about himself—describing life in the early forties in the West; the struggle of the pioneers of anti-slavery; and the fight against Mormonism, which practically started Major Pond on his career as the manager of a lecturing bureau. Incidentally he gave brief sketches of some of the great men with whom he had come in contact—much of it told with a quaint, gentle humor, some of it shaded with pathos, even sadness. The speaker was encouraged again and again to continue and upon retiring was heartily applauded. George J. Bryan concluded the evening's entertainment happily with a talk on "Some Old Friends," in which he traced back to their approximate origin two or three thousand years ago, the bon mots and good stories of the present day, proving by a number of well-chosen specimens, that the stories over which the moderns laugh are identic almost in wording with those told by the wits in the days of Moses.

OBITUARY NOTES.

EDWARD ACKERMANN, for a number of years connected with the booktrade in Chicago and New York, died April 22, on board the steamer Maasdam, bound for Rotterdam, where he was buried. Ackermann was born in 1863, in Weinheim, near Heidelberg, where his father is still engaged in the book business. Upon the conclusion of his apprenticeship and wanderjahre in Germany and England, Ackermann, in 1887, came to this country and for a short time held a position at Zickel's. He then went to Chicago, where he joined the staff of Brentano's. He next established himself in the publishing business with Mr. Eyller, which he conducted first under the firm name of Ed. Ackermann & Co., and later as Ackermann & Eyller. In 1892, he withdrew from the business and for a short time again was at work at Brentano's. During the Columbian World's Exposition he assisted Mr. Baumgärtel in the management of the German book exhibit. When the Exposition was closed Ackermann, always restless, returned to New York to take a position with Gustav Stechert. After a week or two he joined the staff of the Merriam Co., with whom he remained for about a year, when he went over to Brentano's to take charge of their foreign department. With the Brentano's he remained for several years, and then joined Beverley Harrison to manage a department of foreign books. About two years ago he established Book Notes for Siegel, Cooper & Co. which he conducted for about six months, when he severed his connection with the journal. A year ago he went to Akron, O., where he was engaged in editorial work for the Werner Co., with whom he remained until March last, when he accepted the invitation of Mr. Terquem to assist in the administration of the American book exhibit at the Paris Exposition. He was to sail April 14 but was prevented by illness. Rallying a few days later, he decided to return to his native city in the hopes of fully recovering his health; but death overtook him before the ship reached land. Ackermann was a man of considerable ability, a well-trained bookseller, and an indefatigable worker, who though making friends easily, unfortunately did not possess the faculty of accommodating himself to the peculiarities of his employers.

ROWLAND COX, a well-known trademark and copyright lawyer, died on the 13th inst. at his home, in Plainfield, N. J. He was born in Philadelphia and was about fifty-five years old. He was graduated from Princeton in the class of '64. He served in the Civil War in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers, and became Assistant Adjutant-General on the staff of Major Gen. McPherson. Mr. Cox was admitted to the bar in 1866. He devoted his attention almost exclusively to cases of unfair competition in business and infringement of trademarks and copyrights. His arguments in the case of the Anhaeuser-Busch Brewing Association vs. Piza were indorsed twenty years later by the House of Lords, in Montgomery vs. Thompson, known as the "Stone Ale House."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DAUCHY & Co., 27 Park Place, New York, have just issued their "Catalogue of American and Canadian Newspapers," for 1900. This is the tenth issue of the work which has grown steadily in completeness and accuracy of information. (768 p. 8°, cl.)

"A HAND BOOK TO THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY, Astor, Lenox, and Tilden Foundations," has just been published, giving a historical account of the library, with statistics, descriptions of the Astor and Lenox buildings with a reference to their specialties, chapters on classification and catalogues, and special collections and a note on the new building and future policy of the library. The descriptions of the Astor and Lenox buildings are accompanied by diagrams. (64 p. 16°, pap., 10 cents.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Albert Britnell, 248 Yonge St., Toronto, Miscellaneous. (No. 18, 702 titles;) also, Portraits. (617 titles.) —Lemcke & Buechner, 812 Broadway, N. Y., Monthly Bulletin of World Literature. (March, 803-1189 titles.)—Isaac Mendoza, 17 Ann St., N. Y., Americana, drama, crime and criminals, trials, etc. (991 titles.)—Maggs Bros., 159 Church St., London, Original editions of works of modern authors. (No. 169, 1297 titles.)—J. Pearson & Co., 5 Pall Mall Place, London, Rare books, including an important series of historical bindings. (No. 82, 602 titles.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—W. W. Wetmore has sold the remainder of his stock of books, etc., to George Wahr, and has retired from business.

BALTIMORE, MD.—William V. Pippen has removed from North Charles Street, where he has been located since 1888, when he succeeded to the business of Des Forges, to a much larger store at 605 North Eutaw Street.

BEAVER, PA.—H. A. Bernhardy has opened a bookstore here.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Alhambra Book Co. was incorporated here April 25, with a capital stock of $10,000. The officers are: President, William P. Henneberry, formerly of Donohue, Henneberry & Co.; vice-president and general manager, Frederick J. Drake, formerly with Montgomery Ward & Co., and more recently with the Werner Co.; and secretary and treasurer, James P. O'Neill, recently with Donohue, Henneberry & Co. The object of the company is to publish the Alhambra Handbook Series. The books will pertain to reference subjects, to be brought out at a moderate price to suit the masses. Eight volumes are on press and fifteen in course of preparation. Other miscellaneous works will be issued from time to time.

CHICKASHA, I. T.—R. E. L. Shaw has become manager of the Carruthers bookstore, formerly I. T. Carruthers.

CHITTENANGO, N. Y.—W. Scott Sevir, bookseller, has made an assignment.

GAINSVILLE, TEX.—C. Hickson, bookseller, has made an assignment to J. D. Leeper. Liabilities, $2700; assets, $2400.

KINGSTON, N. Y.—S. L. Drake, bookseller, has retired from the business.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y.—Walter J. Aird and Charles A. Ketcham, under the firm name of Aird & Ketcham, will open a book and stationery store here on June 10.

NEW YORK CITY.—The address of the Cassell Publishing Co. is now at 57 Park Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Edwin S. Gorham, formerly of the firm and for many years associated with Mr. Pott, will continue the retail business hitherto conducted by James Pott & Co., Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, together with the publishing and importing of theological, church, and general literature.

NEW YORK CITY.—We were in error in stating last week that Mr. Dunlap had been admitted to partnership by Alexander Grosset. Mr. Dunlap, we are informed, has always been a partner of the firm of Alex Grosset & Co., and the change in the firm name was therefore simply a formal one, and in no way affected the personnel of the firm.

NEW YORK CITY.—Incorporation papers have been filed under the laws of the State of New York, by the firm of McClure, Phillips & Co., of New York City, to do a general publishing business. The capitalization of the new company is $100,000, and the incorporators S. S. McClure, J. S. Phillips, O. W. Brady, T. G. McClure, and J. F. McClure.

NEW YORK CITY.—Harry B. Banks has disposed of his interest and severed his connection with the business of S. F. McLean & Co., 44 East Twenty-third Street, his share being purchased by the other members of the firm. The business will be continued at the same address, under the old firm name, and will be under the personal supervision of S. F. McLean, by whom it was started in 1891, and who has been at its head uninterruptedly since the beginning.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JOHN LANE is about to publish Richard Le Gallienne's new book "Travels in England."

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. will publish at once H. Rider Haggard's new novel "Elissa."

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO. will publish early in the fall a new volume of short stories by Seumas Mac Manus.

THE ABBEY PRESS, New York, has just published a condensed account of "The Transvaal Trouble," from an anti-Boer standpoint, by John Hays Hammond.

R. H. RUSSELL will issue shortly another book of clever drawings by Frank Verbeck, which shows his irresistible bears in the golf field. The title will be "A Handbook of Golf for Bears."

W. B. SAUNDERS, Philadelphia, has just published a work entitled "The Treatment of Fractures," by Dr. Charles Locke Scudder, assistant in clinical and operative surgery in the Harvard Medical School.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY desires the trade to take notice that the price of "The Bath Comedy," by Agnes and Egerton Castle, is $1.50, bound in cloth. The price was inadvertently omitted in the advertisement of the book in last week's issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, page 971.

DAVID WILLIAMS COMPANY, New York, has just published an interesting little volume entitled "The Knight of the Grip, a series of dissertations on his condition, character, and conduct as they appear to an ordinary chap who has studied him." The matter is reprinted from The Iron Age.

A. WESSELS COMPANY, New York, will publish at once "Poverty Knob," a "connected series of novelettes dealing with the characters of a certain New England coast town," by Mrs. Sarah Warner Brooks, whose recent volume of poems, "The Search of Ceres," met with a flattering reception.

TRUSLOVE, HANSON & COMBA are the American publishers of the reissue, in taking and dainty form, of "Some Fruits of Solitude," by William Penn. This favorite little "Enchiridion" is provided with an introduction by Edmund Gosse, who quotes R. L. Stevenson's approbation of "this sweet, dignified, and wholesome book."

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish June 9, "The Sword of the King," the novel by Ronald MacDonald referred to in our last week's issue. They will publish on the same date "Problems of Expansion," a series of papers embodying addresses delivered by the Hon. Whitelaw Reid since his return from Paris, where he was a member of the Peace Conference.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING COMPANY have ready an authorized translation by Wooster Woodruff Beman and David Eugene Smith of Dr. Karl Fink's "Geschichte der Elementar Mathematik," under the title of "A Brief History of Mathematics," the translators explaining that the original title is misleading as the work goes far beyond elementary mathematics.

LAIRD & LEE have just ready "Lee's American Automobile Annual for 1900," a concise but complete description of the leading types of horseless vehicles now on the market, illustrated with upwards of 100 cuts, to which have been added the rules and regulations adopted by leading cities in this country for the safe handling of automobiles on the public highways, an automobile log-book, calendar, etc.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. have just ready "Currita, Countess of Albornoz," a novel of Madrid society, by Luis Coloma, translated from the Spanish by Estelle Huyck Attwell, dealing with the doings of a corrupt society and a corrupt government with power and brilliancy; "For the Queen in South Africa," by Caryl Davis Haskins; and a new edition of Philip Gilbert Hamerton's "Paris in Old and Present Times," profusely illustrated.

ALBERT BRANDT, Trenton, N. J., has in press a volume entitled "In Nature's Realm," by Dr. Charles C. Abbott, author of "Upland and Meadows," etc., with a photogravure frontispiece and seventy-five drawings by Oliver Kemp. In the fourteen sketches of outdoor life which make up this work, Doctor Abbott has had free scope for his kindly yet pungent criticisms on the artificialities and affectations of daily life, and, also—to a greater degree—for his effervescing optimism, and his enthusiasm for the real and the true as he finds it in "Nature's Realm."

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK CO., New York, will publish at once a new story of adventure by J. Maclaren Cobban, entitled "An African Treasure: how the doctor and Sandy Peebles outwitted the Basha Misfiwa in his search for the meaning of the strange cryptogram," etc.; "The Red Rat's Daughter," a new story by Guy Boothby, the scene of which shifts from London to Paris, Hong Kong and Sibera, with illustrations by Henry Austin; also, a copyright edition of E. H. Strain's historical novel, "A Man's Foes—a strange tale of a siege," with illustrations by A. Forestier.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week a new volume by Dr. Lyman B. Sperry, entitled "Husband and Wife, a Book of Information and Advice for the Married and the Marriageable." Dr. Sperry's previous works "Confidential Talks to Young Men," and "Confidential Talks with Young Women," have gained for him a wide reputation as an advisor upon this subject. His latest work contains advice to those, not only already married but instruction and suggestion also to those who are yet to pass through the intimate associations, preparations and experiences which precede marriage.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. have just issued a new work on the South African question, entitled "Leading Points in South African History," written by Edwin A. Pratt, one of the subeditors of the London Times. This is a brief history of the Dutch settlement in South Africa from 1486 to 1900 and is intended for a handbook for public speakers and debaters. They have also just ready "Church Problems," a volume of essays on the problems now confronting the Church of England, edited by H. Hensley Henson and written by the most eminent clergy and laity of the church. This volume is intended as a successor to "Lux Mundi" and "Essays and Reviews."

CASSELL & CO. announce a volume of "Personal Recollections," by H. Sutherland Edwards, editor, playwriter, "war special" and foreign correspondent, who is specially well known as a writer upon music; "A course of Landscape Painting in Water Colors," by J. Mac Whirter; "With Dante in Paradise," readings from the "Paradiso," by Rose G. Selfe; "Cassell's Guide to Paris," an entirely new and original work prepared expressly for the use of visitors to the Exposition; "Practical Metal Plate Work," the second of a new series of practical volumes edited by Paul N. Hasluck; a new edition, thoroughly revised, of Sir Robert S. Ball's "The Story of the Heavens;" and "Royal Academy Pictures, 1900."

DODD, MEAD & CO. have nearly ready a volume entitled "Chapters on War and Policy," by Spenser Wilkinson, of the London Morning Post, who has for many years taken an active interest in the British volunteer movement, his first book on war-like subjects, "Citizen Soldiers," having been published in 1884. Before joining the staff of the Morning Post, he was for ten years a leader writer on the Manchester Guardian. An article on the "Causes and Conduct of the Boer War" from his pen will appear in the June Bookman. They have in preparation Henry Seton Merriman's new novel "Isle of Unrest," a tale of Corsica and Southern France; also, "The Gateless Barrier," a new story by Lucas Malet, (Mrs. St. Leger Harrison,) the daughter of Charles Kingsley, and the author of "The Wages of Sin," etc.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. publish this week an important contribution to the literature of antarctic exploration, in Dr. Frederick A. Cook's volume entitled "Through the First Antarctic Night." Dr. Cook was surgeon and anthropologist to the expedition of the Belgica to the South Pole, which marks a new era in the records of Polar exploration. They have just ready a handsome bird book entitled "Bird Homes," by A. Radclyffe Dugmore, who presents in a popular style an intimate account of the nests, eggs, and breeding habits of the land birds that nest in the eastern United States, illustrated in color and black and white; also, "Robert's Primer of Parliamentary Law for Schools, Colleges, Clubs, Fraternities, etc.," presenting twenty-four easy progressive lessons illustrating parliamentary law and practice, by Joseph Thomas Robert, principal of the Robert Correspondence School of Parliamentary Law, Chicago, Ill.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a new and attractive edition of "A Cumberland Vendetta," by John Fox, jr., illustrated by Louis Loeb; "Hiwa," a tale of ancient Hawaii," by Edmund P. Dole, Hiwa being the supposed goddess queen of Hawaii in legendary times; "The Booming of Acre Hill, and Other Stories," by John Kendrick Bangs; and "The Conquest of Arid America," by William E. Smythe, an authority upon modern scientific irrigation, who describes the wonders accomplished in Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Idaho, Arizona, etc., by science and co-operative capital. They will publish early next month a volume of essays and short stories by Mark Twain, which takes its title from one of the longer stories—"The Man that Corrupted Hadleyburg;" "Bequeathed," a new novel by Beatrice Whitney; and "A Diplomatic Woman," a series of adventures related by the heroine herself who calls herself "Huan Mee."

DAVID MCKAY has just ready a prose translation of the complete works of Virgil, with an essay on the English translators of Virgil by John Conington, edited by John Addington Symonds; also, a new edition (the twenty-fifth) of Stephen Roper's "A New Catechism for Steam Engineers and Electricians upon the Construction and Management of Steam Engines, Steam Boilers, and Electrical Apparatus, rewritten and greatly enlarged by Edwin R. Keller and Clayton W. Pike. The book is particularly adapted to the needs of engineers preparing to pass examinations for license. Mr. McKay has purchased the plates of Lossing's "Pictorial Field Book of the Civil War in the United States," which has been out of print for a number of years. A new edition at a greatly reduced price will be issued in the fall. Mr. McKay has also purchased the plates of Oliver Davis's standard work on "Taxidermy," formerly published by the author. This will be ready in the fall in much improved form at $2—the former price being $10.

HENRY HOLT & CO. will publish within a month a trio of new works bearing on English history: being (1) "English Political Philosophy," from Hobbes to Maine, by Professor William Graham, of Queen's College, Belfast, which is said to be a brilliant epitome of the works of the leading English writers on the subject; (2) "Side Lights on English History," dealing with such topics as the personality of Queen Elizabeth, the execution of Mary Stuart, characteristic traits of Cromwell, the return of Charles II., the Stuarts in exile, Queen Anne and the Marlboroughs, etc., illustrated by extracts from contemporary records, and 80 portraits, facsimiles, caricatures, etc., edited by Ernest F. Henderson, author of "The History of Germany in the Middle Ages," etc.; (3) "The Leading Documents of English History," the texts of the most important legal and constitutional documents from the earliest Saxon code to the last treaty between the British and the Boers with a full critical bibliography, edited by Dr. Guy Carleton Lee, of Johns Hopkins.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish at once "The Light of Day: religious discussions and criticisms from the naturalist's point of view," by John Burroughs. Some of the chapters in this book have appeared in periodicals; others are now printed for the first time, and all may be expected to contain a frank and unconventional statement of Mr. Burroughs's views on theological matters. Some of the contents of the volume are: A retrospect; From the artificial to the natural; Science and theology; Natural versus supernatural; Faith and credulity; In corroboration of Prof. Huxley; The modern skeptic; The decadence of theology; Reason and predisposition; Religious truth; Points of view; God and nature; and other chapters of a similar character. They will publish at the same time a little book by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney on "The Integrity of Christian Science. The author points out what she regards as mistakes in the present teaching, and offers what seems to her a much needed corrective, which would secure to Christian science greater completeness.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just published "Politics and Administration, a study in government," by Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, Professor of Administrative Law in Columbia University, whose purpose it is to show, particularly from a consideration of political conditions as they now exist in the United States, that the formal governmental system as set forth in the law is not always the same as the actual system. The author also attempts to indicate what changes in the formal system of the United States must be made, in order to make the actual system conform, more closely than it does at present, to the political ideas upon which the formal system is based. They have also just ready a volume entitled "Literary Interpretation of Life," by W. H. Crawshaw, Professor of English Literature in Colgate University, which offers some practical suggestions as to "how we may really discover man in that which he has writen." They announce a profusely illustrated work on "Acetylene," treating very fully of the history of the origin, properties, and the application of this gas; "The Education of the Young in the 'Republic' of Plato," translated by Dr. Bernard Bosanquet; and "The Biblical Theology of the New Testament," by Professor E. P. Gould.

D. C. HEATH & CO. are about to issue two little comedies: the first "Nein," a one-act play by Benedix, edited with notes, vocabulary, and exercises, by A. W. Spanhoofd, is intended for beginners; the second, Elz's "Er ist nicht Eifersüchtig." also a one-act piece edited with very complete vocabulary by Professor B. W. Wells, is intended for more advanced students in German. They will also publish at once the first two volumes in a new series of history readers entitled, "America's Story for America's Children," by Dr. Mara L. Pratt. The first book in the series is intended for second reader grades. Its purpose is to develop centers of interest and to present in attractive form the picturesque and personal interests connected with the greater events of our history. The work is illustrated in black and white and color. The second book is devoted to the period of discovery and is in tended for somewhat older pupils. This work is also illustrated and presents many pictures from authoritative sources not hitherto found in books for children. The remaining three volumes in this series will follow shortly. They also announce "A Complete Trigonometry," by Professor Webster Wells, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. All computation called for by the book is based upon the supposition that pupils will be provided with four-place tables.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish next week "Hilda Wade," the last work of the late Grant Allen, which has been completed by his friend Dr. Conan Doyle who was with him while he worked upon it. Hilda Wade, the heroine, devotes her life to rescuing her father's name from the disgrace put upon it by a false accusation of crime. Early in June they will bring out two stories by Elizabeth Knight Tompkins, entitled "Talks with Barbara," and "Things that Count," the latter in the Hudson Library. Late in June Duffield Osborne's romance, published serially as "A Mountain Molock," will be issued under the title "The Secret of the Crater." Two religious books are in preparation, "The Apostle's Creed," by Archibald Hopkins, discussions relating to the credibility of the creed; and "William Watson Andrews," a religious biography by his brother, Samuel J. Andrews, of this well-known Congregational minister who later became a member of the division of the Apostolic Church known as Irvingites. They will publish shortly "A New Study of the Sonnets of Shakespeare," by Parke Godwin. The author claims not only to interpet words and phrases but to throw the whole collection of sonnets into a coherent tale. The volume will also contain a facsimile reprint of the earliest known edition of the sonnets. They have in preparation the first volume of a work on "Scotch-Irish Families in America," by Charles A. Hanna, which will trace the history of the families in the north of Ireland, their journeyings to America and their careers here down to the Revolution. A second volume will deal with the subject from the Revolution to the present day. They have in preparation "Meditations of the Heart," a volume of prayers for private devotion, compiled by Annie Josephine Levi, with an introduction by the Rev. Dr. Gustav Gottheil; also, a volume on "The Historic Towns of the Southern States," edited by Lyman G. Powell, with an introduction by W. P. Trent. Some of the towns written about are Baltimore, Annapolis, Frederick, Washington, Richmond, Williamsburg, Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, and St. Augustine.

MAY 28-31, 3 P.M.—Miscellaneous. (825 lots.)—Bangs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

LITERARY INTERPRETATION OF LIFE

By W. H. CRAWSHAW, Professor of English Literature in Colgate University, author of "The Interpretation of Literature." Cloth, $1.00

The book aims to set forth the principles that underlie the study of literature as a revealer and an interpreter of human life. It is largely practical in purpose. The author's former work on "The Interpretation of Literature" deals with the study of literature in its essential qualities. Those familiar with it will find the present volume supplementary to the principles and methods there set forth. Both volumes together suggest a comprehensive outline of literary study.

THE OPHTHALMIC PATIENT

POLITICS AND ADMINSTRATION A Study in Government

By FRANK J. GOODNOW, LL.D., Professor of Administrative Law in Columbia University, author of "Comparative Administrative Law," "Municipal Home Rule," "Municipal Problems," etc. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50 net

The purpose of this little work is to show, particularly from a consideration of political conditions as they now exist in the United States, that the formal governmental system as set forth in the law is not always the same as the actual system. The attempt is also made to indicate what changes in the formal system of the United States must be made, in order to make the actual system conform, more closely than it does at present, to the political ideas upon which the formal system is based. Remedies are proposed by the author.

CHANNING'S HISTORIES OF THE UNITED STATES

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES FOR SCHOOL USE

By EDWARD CHANNING, Professor of History in Harvard University, author of "Students' History of the United States," etc. With maps and illustrations, a table of dates, a marginal analysis, an apparatus of questions, suggestions to teachers, etc., the Constitution of the United States, and an index. For Grammar Schools. 12mo, half leather, 90 cents net

Of "The Students' History" the comments have been enthusiastic. The Dial of Chicago mentions it as "the nearest approach to that ideal" history not yet published, "and the best of its kind that has yet appeared."

THE TARR AND McMURRY GEOGRAPHIES. First Book

HOME GEOGRAPHY AND THE EARTH AS A WHOLE

By RALPH S. TARR, Professor of Dynamic Geology and Physical Geography, Cornell University, AND FRANK McMURRY, Professor of the Theory and Practice of Teaching at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

With many colored maps and numerous illustrations, chiefly from photographs. 60 cents net

"A beautiful volume. Illustrations are of the best. The maps are masterpieces—better than most maps of twice their size. A book of convenient size, with all of the advantages of the larger books."
—B. W. TINKER, Superintendent of Schools, Waterbury, Ct.

"It is the best elementary book which has come to my knowledge."
—A. L. BARBOUR, Superintendent of Schools, South Hadley Falls, Mass.

THE SECOND BOOK, ON NORTH AMERICA, will appear in May, and the third, on Europe and the remaining continents, early in the fall.

THE BLACK HOMER OF JIMTOWN..

By ED MOTT

A book of real "Coon" Stories

THESE stories, which have appeared during the past eighteen months in the New York Sunday Sun, have been revised by the author for publication in book form, and are now obtainable in a handsome and permanent dress, a fact that will prove most welcome news to the thousands of readers who have already formed the acquaintance of this inimitable story teller.

The Black Homer is inexpressibly droll and delightful. His humor is most unctuous, his vocabulary unique, and his imagination knows no bounds.

Above all, the author has so faithfully depicted the character of the real old time Southern darky, with a dialect so natural and true to life that he has all the charm of a "speaking reality."

12mo, cloth, gilt, 288 pages, price $1.25
